

The University of Tokyo

The University of Tokyo Program for Leading Graduate Schools

Integrated Human Sciences Program for Cultural Diversity

Information Sessions

for Entry to the September 2016 Master's Programs

Integrated Human Sciences Program for Cultural Diversity (IHS) is a graduate program that was selected as a program for leading graduate schools by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) in the academic year 2013. The Graduate Schools of Arts and Sciences and of Interdisciplinary Information Studies are responsible for running this program. We will hold information sessions on Hongo and Komaba I campuses of the University of Tokyo.

The main target of the information sessions is master's students entering into one of the graduate schools of the University of Tokyo in September 2016.

Hongo Campus

15:00–17:00,
Tue, September 20, 2016

Venue: Main Conference Room, 3rd Floor,
Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia

Students in the IHS program will be given a monthly stipend so that they may concentrate on their own studies.

Komaba I Campus

18:45–20:30,
Tue, September 20, 2016

Venue: Room 1311, 1st Floor, Building 13

For details, please see the IHS website.

Inquiries

Phone 81-3-5454-6415

E-mail info@ihs.c.u-tokyo.ac.jp

<http://ihs.c.u-tokyo.ac.jp/en>